Main question is: how we can make teaching Literature better and more interesting, and in the same time using Gardner's models and mind mapping? How we can use creativity as a process of teaching? How pupils and students can use simple workshops and combine all the methodical and didactical, pedagogical as well as psychical methods in understanding Literature? Is it possible to use logical-mathematical and spacial type of intelligence with linguistic or musical in teaching Literature? And how we can develope creativity we already have.
